for secondary school students

Purpose

This policy provides direction to students, staff and families about managing mobile phones and other digital devices that students choose to bring to school. Digital devices include, but are not limited to, mobile phones, smart phones, smartwatches, tablets, ipads or other digital devices with capability of connecting to a cellular communication network, the internet or both.

This policy applies while students are at school or attending an authorised school activity such as an excursion, during school hours.

Mobile phone use for secondary school students

Secondary school students may use their mobile phones and personal devices during lessons, under the direction of and with the permission of their teacher, for designated learning activities that require their use.

Where their use is not required by the teacher, students must switch off or mute their devices before storing them in their school bag. They can access or use their mobile phones or other personal devices during lesson breaks.

Misuse or inappropriate use of mobile phones or personal devices may result in disciplinary action, which includes but is not limited to two formal warnings.

Confiscation is a possible consequence for further non-compliance.

Devices that are confiscated will be stored by the teacher in an envelope with the student's name and returned to the student at the end of the lesson.

Exemptions from this policy

There may be exceptional circumstances where students require an exemption from the requirements of this policy. This could include where:

- the device is used to help monitor or manage a health condition
- the device is a negotiated adjustment to a learning program for a student with a disability or learning difficulties
- the device is used for translation in the classroom by a student with limited English
- a student has personal circumstances that require them to have more ready access to their personal device, such as being the primary carer for younger siblings.

Requests for exemptions from parents/caregivers will be considered by the Assistant Principal: Student and Staff Services on a case by case basis.
