ABOUT GERMAN

German is an official language of Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Liechtenstein, Belgium, Luxembourg and in South Tyrol in Italy.

German has been taught in schools, universities and communities in Australia since the mid-1800s and by the 1930s was a well-established part of the Australian educational landscape. Migration from German-speaking countries is ongoing, thus continuing the contribution that German speakers have made in shaping Australian culture from the time of the first German settlements.

German is a largely phonetic language with many of the same sounds as English, and the same Roman alphabet.

German was introduced at The School of Languages in 2001 and enrolments have remained steady since that time.

German in Years 8-10 at The School of Languages follows the Australian Curriculum and is pitched to second language learners: Teachers will make appropriate adjustments to the curriculum to cater for learners of different backgrounds and differentiate learning experiences for these students.
